SAVINGS BANK TO MOVE

POPULAR ESTABLISHMENT GETS LONG LEASE ON SOUTHWEST COR. BRAND AND BROADWAY

After a most successful career since its establishment about two years ago in its present quarters at 340 Brand boulevard the Glendale Savings Bank is about to move to the opposite side of the boulevard to the Flower block, the premises recently occupied by the Gold Fish cafe and tea room. The bank officials have secured a long lease of those premises and will begin at once to remodel them for banking purposes. The building will have a new front and will be fitted up internally according to the latest and most approved plans for such establishments.

Glendale Savings bank is one of the most solid and growing enterprises of the city. The stock of the bank is held by about fifty leading and progressive citizens of this community. Those parties have felt that an institution that has given unmistakable proofs of its capacity for growth as has the Glendale Savings bank should be housed in fitting and convenient quarters, not alone for its own sake, but also for the convenience of its customers.

It is this attention to the needs and desires of its patrons that has given the Glendale Savings Bank an enviable reputation throughout the community and along with the well-known business capacity and integrisure foundation. Depositors in this ty of its officials has placed it on a bank and all who do business with it invariably speak of the courtesy with which they are received by its officers, the prompt service they obtain and the general good treatment they experience when transacting their business with this institution.

Mr. C. D. Lusby, who has held the position of cashier ever since the bank was opened has established himself in public favor by his invariable courtesy, his business ability and his devotion to the interests of the bank and its depositors. Officials, directors and stockholders are at one in their desire to see Glendale served by a Savings bank that will always be abreast of the times in this rapidly developing center.

Following are the officers of the bank: Ed. M. Lee, president; E. U. Emery and W. W. Lee, vice presidents; M. P. Harrison, secretary; C. D. Lusby, cashier. Directors: W. S. Perrin, George T. Paine, T. J. Hutchison, David Francy, Ed. M. Lee, E. U. Emery and W. W. Lee.

MARRIED

The marriage of Mr. Paul V. Tuttle, formally a resident of Glendale, and well known architect of Los Angeles and vicinity, to Miss Dorothy Johnson, only daughter of Mrs. Bertha Johnson of Los Angeles, formally of Glendale, will come as a great surprise to their many acquaintances of this city.

The marriage which was a very quiet affair took place this afternoon, only the immediate family being present.

SEWING CLUB MEETING

The open meeting of the Philanthropic Sewing club was a successful affair. Twenty-five ladies were present. Much was accomplished. Mrs. Journsky's talk on "Russian Life" was most interesting. The club extends its thank to all who helped to make it a success.

TO ESTABLISH VALUES

EQUALIZATION OF COUNTY TAX BOARD IS NOW IN SESSION IN GLENDALE

Not long ago the county of Los Angeles became convinced that considerable differences existed in the valuation of properties throughout its territory. It therefore resolved to ascertain the values of all properties in the county and to equalize values placed on property and also to equalize the assessments. In accordance with this plan Mr. H. Chaffin, the county representative, is now meeting with a committee of Glendale property owners, who are skilled in values of real estate in this city.

At the first meeting of this committee a large map of the city was studied and plans laid for the establishment of fair values in this section. Up to the present the committee has gone over that part of the city bounded by Central, Second, Adams and Colorado. The values established are on land only. When the land values have been established throughout the city another committee consisting of parties with special knowledge of buildings will be appointed and those values having been established the two valuations will be added and thus the total values ascertained.

It is intended to have a committee in each district and municipality to agree in this manner on the local values. When these shall have been obtained the valuation of the entire county will be known. It will then remain for the county to accept or reject the values thus decided.

Mr. Chaffin is being assisted in Glendale by the following advisory committee: S. L. Borthick, J. F. Lilly, Sam Stoddard, Howard W. Walker, Harry W. Chase, James Wyvel', G. F. Woodbury, E. V. Lukens, Ezra F. Parker, G. J. Fanning, F. H. Vesper, P. A. Kranz, George Butler, Frank Campbell, Spencer Robinson, J. H. Flowers, Ed. M. Lee, W. J. Clendenin, J. A. Cole.

This committee visited and examined all the property in the district mentioned and then in session in the large assembly room of the firehouse discussed and fixed the values to the best of their ability. This work will go on until the whole city has been covered.

INSTRUCTORS TO VISIT SAN DIEGO

Beginning last evening a general exodus of teachers of Southern California has started with San Diego as their destination, the occasion being the annual convention of the southern section of the California Teachers' association in conjunction with which will be held the institution of the cities and counties combined in that section.

The convention promises to be "something different" this year. The time-honored program of speeches will be interspersed with excursions to points of interest and a liberal allowance for time to visit and study the Panama California exposition. The convention dates are November 8th to the 12th inclusive, and, since the number of teachers affected number nearly 5000, it will mean a busy week at San Diego.

FROM BUCKEYE STATE

CITIZENS OF GLENDALE FROM FERTILE FIELDS OF OHIO MAKE BRAVE SHOWING

Gradually the great center of population in the United States has shifted from the east to the middle west. In and around Ohio is now the most important "melting pot" of the nation. Ohio, one of the states that was foremost in the sacrifice of its brave sons in the dark days of the Civil war, has gradually drawn to itself the cream of the nation and around the great centers of its population, modern, progressive ideas gather.

From Ohio have come presidents and famous lawgivers and to this hour the great cities of Cleveland, Cincinnati and Columbus are to the front of the nation with all that is progressive in civic development and in national reform. From Cleveland and other parts of this great state pours forth the grain that it carried on the bosom of the great lakes to the Erie canal at Buffalo and thence to the eastern seaboard of the United States where it is shipped to Europe. It is a great and developing business. With a record for agricultural produee and statesmanship Ohio is not likely ever to take a back seat in the counsels of the nation. FIRST RAIN OF SEASON

WELCOME BREAK IN THE DRY WEATHER COMES WITH FALL OF .80 OF AN INCH

For seven months and a day the skies have been clear and not a drop of rain has fallen. It would be impossible for those who have not lived in the favored climate of California to realize what a wonderful stretch of fine weather the citizens of this Pacific coast state have been enjoying during that long stretch of lovely weather. Poets have sung of California's clime and all they have said has not more than half told the wonders of this paradise of the Pacific, but even the sunshine and the warmth are not any less welcome than the rain when it comes as it did last night to break the rainless season and waken into newness of life the dry valleys and the fields.

Up to one p. m. today the rainfall in Glendale amounted to .80 of an inch. This is quite a record for the first rain of the season. Up to Nov. 9 of last year the rainfall amounted to .33. It is raining at San Diego and it is raining as far north as Ventura. All the towns in the vicinity of Los Angeles are enjoying a share of the life-giving showers. This first shower will be very welcome to ranchers, fruit growers and produce men. It will help plowing and start winter feed on the ranges.

GLENDALE GARDEN SOCIETY

The object of the Glendale Garden society is stated as follows: "To form a society in which persons interested in gardens and flowers might come together to be of social and educational benefit firstly to themselves, secondly to others, and thirdly to the city of Glendale at large."

All persons interested in matters horticultural, whether amateur or professional, are eligible for membership upon payment of 25 cents annual dues.

Mrs. Blackford of Verdugo road has kindly promised to send some coxcomb seeds to headquarters. Mrs. Blackford has been very successful in raising coxcombs, passersby being attracted by the rich dark red of the large blooms which measure 34 inches in circumference, 17½ inches across and 18½ inches in length.

There were fourteen callers at headquarters, 111 W. Broadway, where Mrs. Nanno Wood, the president, presides, on Thursday, all interested in the work of the society. Daffodil and tulip bulbs were given to those who asked for them in limited quantities of six bulbs to each person. It is not the intention of the Glendale Garden Society to stock people's gardens; but rather to stimulate an interest in the cultivation of flowers and vegetables. Those who plant the Darwin bulbs given them on Thursday will be so delighted with the rich coloring and long stems of the tulips that next year they will purchase and plant dozens of similar bulbs. So with the daffodils, gladioli, ixias, cannas, etc., donated by various members. Persons receiving and planting six bulbs of any of these flowers will be stimulated to provide for the following season on a larger scale.

Miss White, special agricultural teacher for the Glendale schools, visited headquarters this week. She is greatly enthused over the policy and outlook of the Glendale Garden society and promises her most willing assistance and co-operation in any and every way possible.

FIRE IN TROPICO

Shortly after midnight Friday an alarm of fire was turned in at the Glendale firehouse. The fire was in Tropico at 117 San Fernando road. Under command of Fire Chief Lankford the department responded and got on the ground in time to aid the Tropico department in fighting the flames. The building belonged to Frank Funatisu and was used as a grocery store and hotel. It was a 2-story construction of wood, valued at $2000, and its contents at $1500. The fire was subdued in little more than an hour. Besides the chief there assisted at the fire Walter Eves, Emil Kiefer and George Potter.

RUSSIA'S PEASANT MILITARY LEADER

No one can have failed to notice how hard a task the German armies under the much-lauded Von Hindenburg have had in carrying on the campaign against Russia in the neighborhood of Dvinsk and other localities, where two months ago it looked as though the path were straight and easy to Riga and even to Petrograd. For those two months the Teutons have been hurling masses of troops against the Russians, not only without much gain, but even with the result of serious loss to themselves.

There is no doubt that this is the effect in part of the increase in the supply of ammunition which has given the Russians a fair chance to defend themselves, instead of going into the trenches with iron clubs to face the Germans with quickfiring guns. Supplies have been reaching the Russians from Japan and also from the United States and from Britain. In the beginning of the war the Russians were sadly handicapped by reason of lack of ammunition, their principal powder factories having been blown up by German emissaries before the war broke out.

In addition to this new supply of ammunition the Russians have also got the inspiration of the new commander-in-chief. For a long time faith was placed in the generalship of Grand Duke Nicholas, who showed a masterly hand in retreat, but effected very little against the Germans in an aggressive way. The Germans, with their network of strategic railways, were altogether too mobile for the Russians, with nothing but a roadless land behind them, with a single line of railway or at the most two.

It came as a surprise to the world to learn that Grand Duke Nicholas had been removed from his post as commander-in-chief and sent to take up duty in the Caucasus. At first the world could not understand this, as, indeed, the world seldom understands Russian motives and character. Soon, however, it became manifest that the change was for the better. Czar Nicholas himself took command of the armies in the field and before long it was easy to see that a strong hand was at the helm.

It now turns out that the new commander-in-chief is General Alexeieff. This is one of the remarkable features of Russian rule. Nominally and acctually an autocracy, civil and religious Russia is at the same time democratic enough to elevate a peasant to the head of the army and another to the real power in the church. The real commander-in-chief of the Russian armies is Alexeieff. Nicholas is a figurehead. Some months ago Alexeieff replaced General Russki. He has now been elevated over the head of Grand Duke Nicholas and as chief-of-staff is the most respected man in the armies of the czar as well as the one on whose plans will turn much of the destiny of the world. Whatever military moves may be made by Russia in the future will be the result of Alexeieff's policy, though the czar may approve them and announce them as his own.

Born in 1843 of poor peasant parents, Alexeieff's debut in the great world of militarydom is quite unusual in Russia; especially as his mother was an Armenian. His father, however, had the good fortune to be appointed estate manager to Count Modvinoff, who took an interest in the young lad and sent him to the naval school at Petrograd. Alexeieff was rapidly promoted. He introduced various reforms in the navy, among other things prohibiting the use of liquor among the sailors on duty. His executive ability has raised him to his present high state.

ROADWAY IMPROVEMENT

The application of the board of trustees of the city of Tropico to the railroad commission of the State of California for a permit to pave the roadways of Brand boulevard over the tracks and right of way of the Southern Pacific railway in the city of Tropico came up for hearing before Special Commissioner Westover in the Tropico city hall November 5, 1915, at 10 o'clock a. m., and was continued until such time as the parties shall submit proofs regarding the construction of the tower that stands as an obstruction to the use of the easterly roadway and the parties now in ownership thereof for the purpose of enabling the commissioner to determine the party or parties against whom the order granting the permit for the improvement by the city should issue, and at whose expense the removal of the obstruction to the free use of the roadway by the public should be made and issued. The tower was constructed about 1902, and the strip of ground upon which it encroaches was conveyed for the public use as a roadway across its tracks and right of way in 1904. Subsequently the Southern Pacific and Pacific Electric entered into a contract for operating and maintaining the tower at their joint expense. For that reason the S. P. people contend that P. E. people should be required to share in the expense of its removal, estimated to be about $700.

SUNLAND AND LITTLELANDS

In a Strange Land

One of the most thrilling experiences which could befall a young girl is to travel in a foreign country—alone—and unable either to speak or understand the language. Miss Andrea, a niece of Mrs. Emily Volker, arrived from Germany at the port of New York but a few weeks past. From New York Miss Andrea came to Los Angeles and made the trip without any serious difficulty. From there she was directed to Glendale, and arriving at the Glendale station one day last week came near losing her way. No one close by could speak German, but Jasper N. McGillis, a grocer, seeing where she was bound for on her luggage, corraled Mr. Shulz, who manages Mr. Wetherbee's store, and with the mutual tongue Miss Andrea was directed to her La Crescenta destination.

Wonderful Trip

Landon Gleeiup, a nephew of Mrs. V. B. Claflin, of Madison, Wis., arrived in La Crescenta the first part of the week after a most wonderful adventure. Taking the train from his home town of Madison, some months ago, Mr. Gleeiup left the rails and took to a bicycle over the footpaths of the Rockies to La Crescenta. Where riding was rough, the wheel was pushed, and hills were no obstacle in the path of young Mr. Gleeiup's sightseeing trip. Among places visited by this youthful adventurer were Salt Lake, the Grand Canyon, San Francisco Exposition and Lake Tahoe, and, incidentally, Mr. Gleeiup isn't through yet.

Mr. S. J. Peters, 83 years old, of Chicago, grandfather of Mrs. Claflin, is also a visitor at her home.

Annual Harvest Home Dinner

Tuesday night instead of the regular meeting the people of the colony celebrated with their annual harvest home dinner. The guests occupied seven long tables, which were adorned with the season's beautiful flowers of chrysanthemums, roses and carnations. Everything was in harmony with the spirit of the occasion and everyone seemed happy. After the repast, Mr. Ashley, after a short address of welcome, called upon Mr. W. G. Paul. Mr. Paul chose the very ordinary subject of "Weeds" for his topic and made a very effectual and telling speech, using some concrete examples as practical object lessons. The result of which will be seen perhaps next Saturday when a number of the prominent men in the colony meet at the center of the town with their hoes, rakes, spades, etc., prepared to do violent battle against that spoiler of civic beauty—the objectionable and obnoxious weed. Mr. Maxwell, who was a guest of the evening, absolutely refused to make a speech, declaring he was loaded to the muzzle but would reserve his ammunition till the Friday night round table. Rev. W. H. Wieman followed with a most practical talk, taking as his text the motto engraved above the fireplace of the club house, To The Spiritual Life of the Soil. Mr. Wieman brought out the idea that while we should not neglect the material things, yet the more important, higher and spiritual affairs of life are given secondary place, apparently so at least, by the majority of people. And that while we should never be content to rest on our oars while our surroundings can be improved upon by substituting beauty and harmony for ugliness and disorder, yet the higher things of life such as neighborliness, brotherly kindness and all practical Christian graces should be more earnestly cultivated and have first consideration. Mrs. Wm. Miles made an appropriate speech, expressing her appreciation of the meeting together of the residents of the colony in friendly and neighborly fashion. Mrs. Dunn added greatly to the pleasure of the evening by rendering some delightful music on the piano.

"Then you are not bothered with mosquitoes on the front porch?"

"Not any more. We keep the graphaphone going now."—Kansas City Journal.

USES UNIQUE ADVERTISING

Succeeds in Arousing Public Curiosity to a High Pitch Over the Coming of the Motor Car

According to information received by Dodge Brothers, the motor car salesmen of the antipodes are not much behind their American brothers in advertising stunts. S. A. Cheney of Adelaide was recently appointed Dodge Brothers' dealer. To arouse curiosity in the car he fitted up an old cycle car with a sign reading: "No! This is not a Dodge Brothers." He drove tthis around the city every day and in addition used a series of newspaper advertisements: "Dodge Brothers Car Has Been Shipped," "Every Day Brings Dodge Brothers' Car Nearer Australian Shores," "Welcome Dodge Brothers' Car When it Reaches Adelaide," etc., were some of the phrases used. As a result all Adelaide is talking of Dodge Brothers car.

Frequent reports are made that the city boys possess greater stamina than country boys. This would depress the latter if they had the slightest reason for believing it.
